THE SOLICITORS SCHEME

Professional Standards Act 1994 (NSW)

PREAMBLE

1.0 OCCUPATIONAL ASSOCIATION

The Solicitors Limitation of Liability Scheme is a scheme of The Law Society of New South Wales (The Law Society). The Law Society is the professional association of solicitors practising in New South Wales and its details are as follows:

The Law Society of New South Wales A.C.N 000 000 699

170 Phillip Street

SYDNEY NSW 2000

The Law Society is constituted as a company limited by guarantee. It is governed by a council of 21 members elected in accordance with its articles of association and who are representative of city, country and suburban solicitors. It has more than 13,000 members practising on their own account, or as employees in private practice, government service and corporate service. Approximately 10,000 members are private practitioners of whom more than 50% are employers.

Since 1935 The Law Society has also been vested with powers pursuant to statute to regulate the practice of solicitors in New South Wales. These powers are comprehensive and, as they currently exist, are set out in the Legal Profession Act 1987 (the LP Act). In particular, the Council of The Law Society is empowered by the LP Act to grant practising certificates to legal practitioners authorising them to practise as solicitors and to refuse to issue a practising certificate if the requirements specified by the LP Act are not met including, among others, failure to pay a required contribution or levy to the Solicitors Mutual Indemnity Fund (the profession's compulsory insurance fund).

1.1 RESPONSIBILITY FOR ADMINISTERING THE SCHEME:

Responsibility for the administration of the scheme and ensuring that it complies with the requirements of the Professional Standards Act 1994 (the PS Act) and of The Professional Standards Council will rest with the Council of The Law Society and senior officers of The Law Society.

1.2 RISK MANAGEMENT:

DETAILS OF RISK MANAGEMENT STRATEGY

In October 1994 Messrs Blake Dawson Waldron Legal Management Consultancy Services was appointed by the Board of LawCover Pty, Limited, (LawCover) a subsidiary of The Law Society, to design and develop its Risk Management Education Program. This follows the acceptance of certain recommendations contained in a Risk Management study completed for LawCover by Streeton Consulting Pty Limited and Minet Professional Services Limited.

The Streeton Report recommended that four Risk Management Education modules be designed and delivered ideally to all practitioners in New South Wales. The modules are titled:

1. engagement management;
2. managing the legal issues;
3. listening, asking and explaining;
4. quality assurance and risk management;

Each course is of 4 hours' duration.

LawCover and the consultants have been committed to widespread consultation with the profession, legal training institutions and other relevant individuals and organisations throughout the development phase of the program.

Two non-urban practitioners are acting as special advisers to the program. Their role is to ensure that the perspective and the needs of practitioners from small legal firms are taken into account both in terms of course content and delivery.

COURSE DESIGN AND DELIVERY - KEY FEATURES

Nature of Courses

All four courses will be extremely inter-active requiring a high level of participation by attendees. Courses are offered to small groups (maximum of 20 participants per course) throughout New South Wales.

Courses involve pre-course reading, participation in exercises and a detailed case study. In some courses video replay exercises will be used. A detailed manual for participants will be provided for each course.

Courses are offered as "stand alone" modules to allow participants to attend the modules in any order and with opportunities to attend in various configurations.

Incentives to Attend

The Board of LawCover has agreed that LawCover will provide full rebate, for the cost of each module satisfactorily completed by each principal, of their premium contributions over two-years following completion of the module.

Mere attendance at the course will not necessarily guarantee the granting of the premium rebate. Attendees will need to demonstrate active attendance and participation.

Delivery of Courses by Risk Management Educators

The Courses are delivered by Accredited Risk Management Educators who have been selected and have undergone training by BDW Legal Management Consultancy Services. The accredited educators have:

- demonstrated expertise as outstanding presenters of inter-active training courses for professions/senior executives;
- exhibited specialist knowledge of risk management, communications, practice management and quality assurance;
- demonstrated a willingness to undergo specialist training;
- demonstrated experience in the use of case studies in training;

While this is an initiative of LawCover, the Council of The Law Society strongly encourages attendance at the Risk Management Education Courses and the courses will be prepared in such a way as to ensure that they comply with The Law Society requirements for Continuing Legal Education Courses.

Other Risk Management Activities:

- Professional Conduct and Practice Rules.
- A range of Guides to Good Practice.
- Introduction of Client Care Guidelines.

- Trust account audits and advisory services.
- Schemes of Accreditation.
- Development of a basic set of communication 'protocols' for use at the time the solicitor/client relationship is being formed. This has also been required as a result of amendments to the LP Act that affect engagement and delivery of information by solicitors.

- Client communication studies as part of the Continuing Legal Education programs available to solicitors.
- A field counselling service providing a confidential diagnostic and counselling service to insured solicitors who have been the subject of claims.
- Recording information in the LawCover database and files to obtain more reliable and, timely feedback on risk trends. This will also assist in understanding whether risk management initiatives are proving effective.
- Surveys to examine the practices and office procedures of firms to assist educational programs and field counsellors.

All of the above (except university activities) are provided by The Law Society or its subsidiaries, LawCover and the College of Law or otherwise under its auspices.
